hotel rooms and private conference chambers, removed from the oratorical impen-etrability of the main congress hall, delegates from 21 nations of the new world today worked speedily towards a
"Pan-American Doctrine," which may become the greatest instrument of policy in the western hemisphere since the Monroe doctrine.Such a doctrine would take the form of a joint declaration by the Pan-American conference putting on parchment the essence of the statement by Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, that American nations must not permit "invasion of this hemisphere by the armed forces (or the propagandistic forces) of any power or combination of powers."Haste Marks Work
Some haste characterized work of the conference today. This was essential because Foreign Minister Jose Maria Canillo of the Argentine must leave for home this afternoon.
Delegations want Canillo's approval of any board instrument of policy

Christmas dolls on display are inclined to be real flappers, painted cheeks, pencilled eyebrows, crimson kissers, pink fingerings. Some incline to that girlish figure, others, mostly the rubber ones, have not learned how to reduce. More dolls have blue eyes than any other color.
Expressions of some are coquettish, while others are solemn as a little girl with a toothache. Taken all in all, you can get most any kind of a doll you like, from life size to tiny ones with nursing bottles.A poultryman up in the northern end of the county, who likes to keep his hens in a laying humor, has hit upon a novel experiment. He clips of goosebore prophesies in which they say that we are going to have a mild winter. He pastes on a bulletin library of the chicken coop. So

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Germany's march to the east has been transformed from talk into reality.As a result of the overwhelming Nazis victory in the Memel elections, responsible observers today were convinced that Chancellor Hitler will be able to announce return of Memel to the Reich when the Reichstag meets in Germany. This is expected in spite of earlier assertions by Hitler that he does not want Memel.Lithuania, as possessor of Memel, is seen as menaced, but she is expected to profit by the experience of Czechoslovakia and submit to becoming a vassal state within the German orbit without a fight.
Well-informed quarters do not expect any third power to resist Memel's incorporation within Germany, or to assist Lithuania.Causes Furious Thinking Europe's greater concern is the realization that Hitler's declaration that he has no further territorial aims in Europe does not apply to German minorities, and this is caus-

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Dec. 12.—

from a lingering heart ailment, at the age of 58.Means was serving a 15-year prison sentence for the $104,000 ran-

Means had undergone an opera-of months from a combination of ailments including a weakened heart condition.A North Carolinian by birth, Means came from an old and promigovernor of the state. Kinship to the Theodore Roosevelt was traced through the Bullock side of the Line Highway In UseWhile formal opening of the newly constructed stretch of highway between Edenburg and the Ohio state line on the Ben Franklin highway is not scheduled until Friday of this week, large numbers of motorists were using the highway yesterday.All of the concrete paving has been down for some time, and the only work not completed is some of the finishing along the berm.The new highway is almost a straight route from the end of the old concrete beyond the Edenburg viaduct to the Ohio state line beyond the Carbon plant. Likewise, the grade of the new route is almost level. Three is one overhead over thehighway at Hillsville, and there is one subway under the road, where one of the rail lines to the quarries goes under the highway. Several fills have been made along the route through the worked over sections of the old quarries.Likewise, a number of small homes in the Hillsville vicinity were moved, in order to clear the path for the route of the new highway.This connecting strip, of several miles, marks the last paving needed on the Ben Franklin highway for some hundreds of miles to make the route completely improved.It will probably be a much travelled highway. It is the direct route

Illinois Is Battling "Rabbit Fever"

Twelve Dead In Recent Attack

Over 250 Cases Reported Since Start Of Hunting Season, November 10

OTHER STATES ALSO REPORT DISEASE

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Claiming its 12th victim this fall, the most widespread attack of tularemia or rabbit fever ever recorded in Illinois was being fought by city and state health authorities today.

The death toll from the strange malady was raised to at least 12 with the death of Mrs. Nellie Gallagher of Villa Grove, Ill., according to the state department of health.

More than 250 have already been reported stricken since the hunting season opened Nov. 10 and a score of new cases is the daily average reported now.

Other States Suffer
With an estimated death rate of five per cent, it was feared the list of fatalities would be considerably increased by the time the epidemic dies out.

Other states in the middle west where rabbits abound have reported a marked increase in the number of cases but the disease is said to be nowhere as severe as in Illinois. East St. Louis has barred the sale and transportation of rabbits where 16 cases were recorded in the past two weeks, it was said by the department, and other communities are considering similar action.

Little is known of the malady and its cure. Transfusions by convalescents from the disease have been helpful but uncertain.

Two factors favorable to codification of Pan-American principles opposed to the enmeshment of European systems—particularly Nazism and Fascism—presented themselves today: enthusiasm was noted everywhere for Saturday's declaration by Secretary Hull; and Castillo's speech practically paralleled it.

Address Lauded

The tall, thin, distinguished chief of the United States delegation is the object of veritable adulation. The press lauds Hull's address, and other delegates and the Peruvian public openly show their admiration for the white-haired American statesman.

Hull's system is to gain agreement in principle among the delegates in star-chamber sessions before any major issue is subjected to the beclouding speech-making of the general conference floor.

To this end he submitted to chief delegates a Washington draft of a proposed joint statement fortifying the 1936 Buenos Aires convention which said a threat to any nation of the Americas was of interest to all nations.

Castillo at first would have nothing to do with it. He adhered resolutely to the stand taken in his speech, that no new pacts were needed.

Argentine Won Over
The Argentine foreign minister supplied no concrete reasons for his reluctance to enter into any new commitments. He pointed only to Argentina's close commercial connections with European nations, especially Great Britain, and contended that the western hemisphere should draw itself in to become a world apart.

It was Dr. Francisco Castillo Nejaera, Mexican ambassador to the United States, and head of the Mexican delegation in Lima, who more than Hull largely won the Argentine over.

Castillo finally agreed that a simple declaration of American solidarity against armed force and propaganda by the old world in the new was all right in principle. A drafting committee set to work at once to frame such a declaration, and action on it may come today.

So far, it is understood, the United States draft contains no proposal of military arrangements among the 21 nations. Hull made this clear Saturday, when he said each country should take its own measures.

Coordination of the pacts which have been evolved in the history of Pan-Americanism is the objective of many of the delegates here. Five peace pacts and several conventions for conciliation and arbitration would be welded into one under this plan.

Consultation upon the threat of war in the Americas, either from within or without, would be embodied in such a code, while questions of trade—actually Hull's chief concern—would be handled in a resolution calling for reduction of quota and other barriers.

Brazil has submitted to the conference a proposal whereby immunity grants to American countries would be denied the right ever to demand special minority rights. It will be discussed next week, probably. The plan is believed directed at the large German population of Brazil.

Some of the delegations are lining up signatures for a petition which may offer mediation in the Spanish civil war.

May Alter Plan

Lima, Peru, Dec. 12.—The United States delegation has definitely decided to drop the idea of presenting a draft treaty for mutual continental defense to the Eighth Pan-American Conference, now in session at Lima, it was learned on unimpeachable authority today.

The decision to abandon the defense plan was taken, according to reliable reports, as a result of a series of conferences between Secretary of State Cordell Hull and leaders of the Latin American delegations. It was also a direct consequence of the address made Saturday by Jose Maria Castillo, foreign minister of Argentina.

In place of the abandoned project, it was authoritatively reported that Hull is now circulating privately the text of an alternative treaty. By the terms of this pact all the nations of the American continent would bind themselves to take action in the event of a threat to the sovereignty of any American nation by a non-American power.

Each American nation, however, will, according to the proposed arrangement, take its action as an independent entity so that its signature of the treaty will in no way affect its national sovereignty, or its right to act in the manner most suited to its particular situation.

white lights, green lights, purple lights and all the various shades of the rainbow, for there's going to be great rivalry in New Castle to see who can have the prettiest Christmas decorations. Originality in designing the displays is one of the factors that will influence judges in their decisions. It's going to be a real treat to just ride around and rubber.

J. Audley Boak, master of the state grange, and a number of other Lawrence county grangers will attend a three-day meeting of the state grange to be held this week at Washington, Pa. The first session opens on Tuesday morning. Federal crop control, the national farm bill, taxation, schools and relief will be discussed.

County commissioners of Beaver county are planning to erect a big addition to the county home. The cost is estimated at $194,799 of which the county will have to raise approximately $107,000. A PWA grant of $87,659 has been approved by the state and federal authorities.

Counting the deer that have been left after the recent offensive is now one of the objectives of the game commission. Fifteen representative districts in the Allegheny national forest have been selected in which to make the census.

The modern beauty parlor, where women go to have their eyebrows plucked, their faces smothered in mud and their hair waved, is nothing new, according to a book-worm who has been exploring the public library. Egyptian women went through the same performances. They even painted their finger nails and wore high heeled shoes.

Michigan motorists are already sporting 1939 license plates. Pa. News observed one today on a machine parked on North Jefferson street. The plate is cream colored with black letters and numerals.

It is like a moving picture to watch the Christmas shoppers downtown crossing streets, if one would just stand back and be observing. It is amazing just how many break laws. Motorists are not the only ones in the wrong in many instances. At present, New Castle has launched a very good project, a "Safety Driving School," with classes being held in a second floor room of the Post Office Building on The Diamond, which gives a thorough training to anyone desirous of knowing what is right and what is wrong, in the way of traffic for both the pedestrian and motorist. It is free instruction with the Pennsylvania state motor police in charge of classes. Enrollments are received at the American Automobile Association in The Castleton Hotel Building.

Saturday evening about 9 o'clock motorists had to "drive around" two men who seemingly persisted in standing exactly in the middle of Falls street at Mill by Trinity Episcopal church and hold a conversation. They wouldn't move to the sidewalk where it was safe. From all appearances, they had something interesting to talk about, as they didn't pay any attention to the whizzing by of cars, who honked horns to get them to step aside. Again, "Accidents are caused—they don't just happen" could have been true here.

It is rumored that the sparrows assembled in convention in this city last week, passed a resolution of thanks to the retail merchants for the splendid pine tree decorations placed in the city. The sparrows decided to move from their location in the trees in the park on the Diamond into some of the Christmas pine decorations, which afforded them more protection from the inclement weather.

Pa. News's attention has been called to a white house, flanked by a garage, on display in a store window on Long avenue. The house is of bungalow type, 18 by 12 inches, with front porch and pillars. Twenty-four pounds of cube sugar was used in its construction, with icing being used as "mortar". At night the house is lighted up with a red light, which gives it a cheerful appearance. Adding to its significance as a Christmas season display, "Santa Claus" can be seen on the chimney, ready to descend with his gifts for the "family" within. There is a lawn, of green sugared coconut, in front of the house, also several nice "pine trees". Within the garage is a miniature red automobile.

support Premier Mussolini's demands. In exchange, the French promise not to place any embarrassing obstacles in the way of Hitler's push eastward.

Week-end developments revealed that Poland is rapidly being placed in a different situation. Poland faces increased German influence on her northern border, the possibility of a German-fomented uprising of the Carpatho-Ukrainians on the south, and German pressure for concessions in the Polish corridor.

Major German diplomatic pressure against Poland is to be backed with the customary military "maneuvers." War games are reportedly timed for the middle of January, with Hitler pictured as confident of realizing his dream of an independent Ukrainian state at the doorstep of Russia.

PARK COMMISSION MAKES SUGGESTIONS TO CITY COUNCIL

Castle, dated September 28, 1938, relative to establishing ownership of the property to be improved.

"The Park commission recommends that there be appropriated and set out from the general revenues, a sum not less than $1,000, for the recreation facilities as embodied in the playground activities.

"The Park commission respectfully recommends that the city sponsor a project which will contemplate a survey, lay-out preparation of plans and specifications for the entire park system.

Improve Roads
"The Park commission recommends that the city sponsor a project to improve the roads, trails and major athletic facilities in Cunningham park, including the approaches thereto, such as Cascade boulevard, using a stone base and gravel and amiesite top, as the needs of the same may require, the installation of ditches and drains and the erection of entrance pylons.

"The improvements hereby recommended will provide an outlet for local labor which cannot be used on the street improvement program until late spring and will be a constructive contribution to the community.

"The Park commission recommends that for the purpose of putting into effect the principle established by Section 2 of Ordinance 4540, adopted September 1, 1938, it will be the intention of the commission to take over and operate the various features having recreational value in the various parks. To this end the commission requests that the concessionaires be advised that the leases will not be renewed at the expiration of the present terms.

would question the legality of the decree. If successful along this line, Giesler hopes to bar all testimony on the grounds the divorce is invalid and a wife cannot testify against her husband.

Question Marriage

If such a counter move is necessary, Prosecutor Eugene Blalock stated, he would in turn question the legality of Miss Etting's marriage 16 years ago to Snyder before she soared to fame on the musical comedy stage and radio.

There is reason to believe, the prosecutor declared, that the divorce of Snyder and a previous wife was not final when he and the chaste and eloped and were married. Snyder's attorney implied that he will seek to establish self-defense in the wounding of Alerman on the hectic night of last Oct. 15. What went on then can be told by another participant if Miss Etting's testimony is blocked.

She is 21-year-old Edith Snyder, the colonel's daughter by another marriage. Following Miss Etting's divorce in November, 1937, she remained with her step-mother as a companion.

Snyder has been at liberty on $40,000 bond since "the boys came through for a pal."

REV. H. A. TOMS IS HONORED ON VISIT

Mrs. Stella S. Reel, Pearson street, entertained at a beautifully appointed 1 o'clock luncheon party yesterday afternoon members of her family as a medium of honoring her cousin, the Rev. Harry A. Toms of Pittsburgh, formerly of this city.

The group partook of the full course menu at an attractively arranged festive board, which suggested the Yuletide season with its novel decorations. Places marked for ten. The hours that ensued were spent in reminiscing and other avenues of diversion.

Rev. Toms has just returned from a trip abroad, and he related many interesting experiences to the group. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Toms of Pittsburgh. Recently he had two songs of his own composition published in Pittsburgh entitled "Light Flashed in My Heart" and "When He Is At The Wheel".

Prior to going to Pittsburgh with his parents, Rev. Toms spent his boyhood days in New Castle and he was formerly affiliated with the firm of Williams, Brown and Winters, attorneys.

The Pittsburgher returned home late last evening.

VICTORY CLASS GIVES PARTY FOR CHILDREN

The Christmas spirit again manifested itself at St. John's Lutheran church when the Victory Bible class sponsored a party for the children of the Sunday school on Saturday afternoon, at half past two o'clock.

The tiny tots, accompanied by their parents or older brothers and sisters as well as the grownups, gave an enthusiastic response to the Christmas tree and the games. Santa Claus' helper, played by Jack Trent, mingled with the youngsters and also brought gifts of candy.

The success of the party was due to the members of the Victory Bible class who contributed much toward the entertainment and the social features. Special credit is due Miss Florence Mitchell and Mrs. John Baer, members of the entertainment committee from the class. Miss Mitchell was assisted in the games by Mrs. Frank Winter, president of the class, and Mrs. A. J. Gavro, along with several teachers from the department. Mrs. J. O. Woods and Mrs. William Dickinson assisted Mrs. Baer in serving refreshments. A number of mothers, members from the Victory Bible class, and Sunday school workers were special guests.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

INFERIORITY COMPLEX CURE

Below I quote from a letter typical of many I am receiving from boys and girls, young men and women on a subject that is of great interest.

"Dear Dr. Myers: I sometimes read your articles in our local paper about helping people with their troubles and I wonder if you can help me. I am a young man and my trouble is that I have an inferiority complex and a lack of speech. I never seem able to converse freely with most people. Most of the time I am under a tension when talking to some one and it is difficult for me to converse steadily for any great length of time. I seldom go anywhere because I always get nervous in front of people, and it seems as though I am at a loss to be able to say anything. So please write to me and tell me what I can do to overcome this and I will be greatly appreciative of it."

Needn't Talk Much

I know how you feel. I also know that your anxiety about carrying on a conversation is caused chiefly by your notion that you must talk much to be liked and prove agreeable socially. Let me tell you that I have received a tremendous amount of personal relief by discovering, after many years of needless suffering, that I don't have to talk much; that, indeed, I can be most attractive socially at many times by just listening earnestly (and I can learn something too), and that all persons who converse well are greatly delighted to have an animated listener.

Ask Questions

I have also discovered that often in a group who are discussing matters of which I am partly or wholly ignorant, I can find comfort and relief by studying the conversation enough to ask a question which will encourage the person speaking to continue. It sort of winds him up when he runs down, and lets me rest.

When by this procedure, I can attain composure, I have no disturbing emotions to hinder my expression when, perchance, an idea does come into my little head. I commend a similar scheme to you.

Of course, you won't expect to get relief all at once. If you accomplish some noticeable progress after several months, be very happy. I still have my own trouble, and I have been working at it for a number of years. But I am as sure as I know my hair is light that the method I described has reduced my personal suffering.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

IDLE DREAMING.

"Shall I be carried to the skies,
On flow'ry beds of ease;
While others fought to win the prize,
And sail through stormy seas?"
—Old Hymn.

Notwithstanding the sentiment expressed in the above hymn, notwithstanding that American youth has been taught for generations to rely upon himself and save for his old age, and notwithstanding our scorn for the British Dole, we have now in this Nation an idea of social security which is very bizarre.

The idea seems to be that somebody ought to give us something. We start worrying about whence our next meal is coming from, and instead of going out in the backyard and planting some potatoes or setting an old hen, we begin yelling for help.

About that time some big-hearted throaty uplifter comes along and for only a penny-a-day does he agree to squeeze life and luxury out of the rich and distribute it to the poor. He will amend the Constitution or have a law passed making everybody rich without the shedding of a drop of sweat.

This plan of organizing Clubs and circulating petitions as a means to health and happiness, instead of feeding hogs and raising chickens is responsible for driving all of us screwy. Psychologists, astrologers, mountebanks, and an occasional religious revivalist have instant explanations or remedies for every real or imaginary human woe. The principal weakness in their proposed restorative is that none of them recommends work.

Young people coming out of school during years past, instead of being advised that the way to get there is to roll up their sleeves and start at the bottom have been filled full of defeat and despair. They have been petted and purred over until they are convinced that their elders are a generation of quitters. They are told that the reason there are no jobs is because the greedy rich have the jobs sewed up for a few jellyfish who are willing to sell their souls. They are promised if they will join some kind of a crusade for the overthrow of something, deny God and country, and follow the leader, they will emerge into a grand era of proletarian bliss.

Now, what are sober-minded citizens doing in this country going to do? Are they going to buckle down and support the idle and thriftless, or are they going to rise up in their strength and say, "nothing doing?"

There is no such thing as talpa-phy, how a long-married people know what one another will say before it is said?

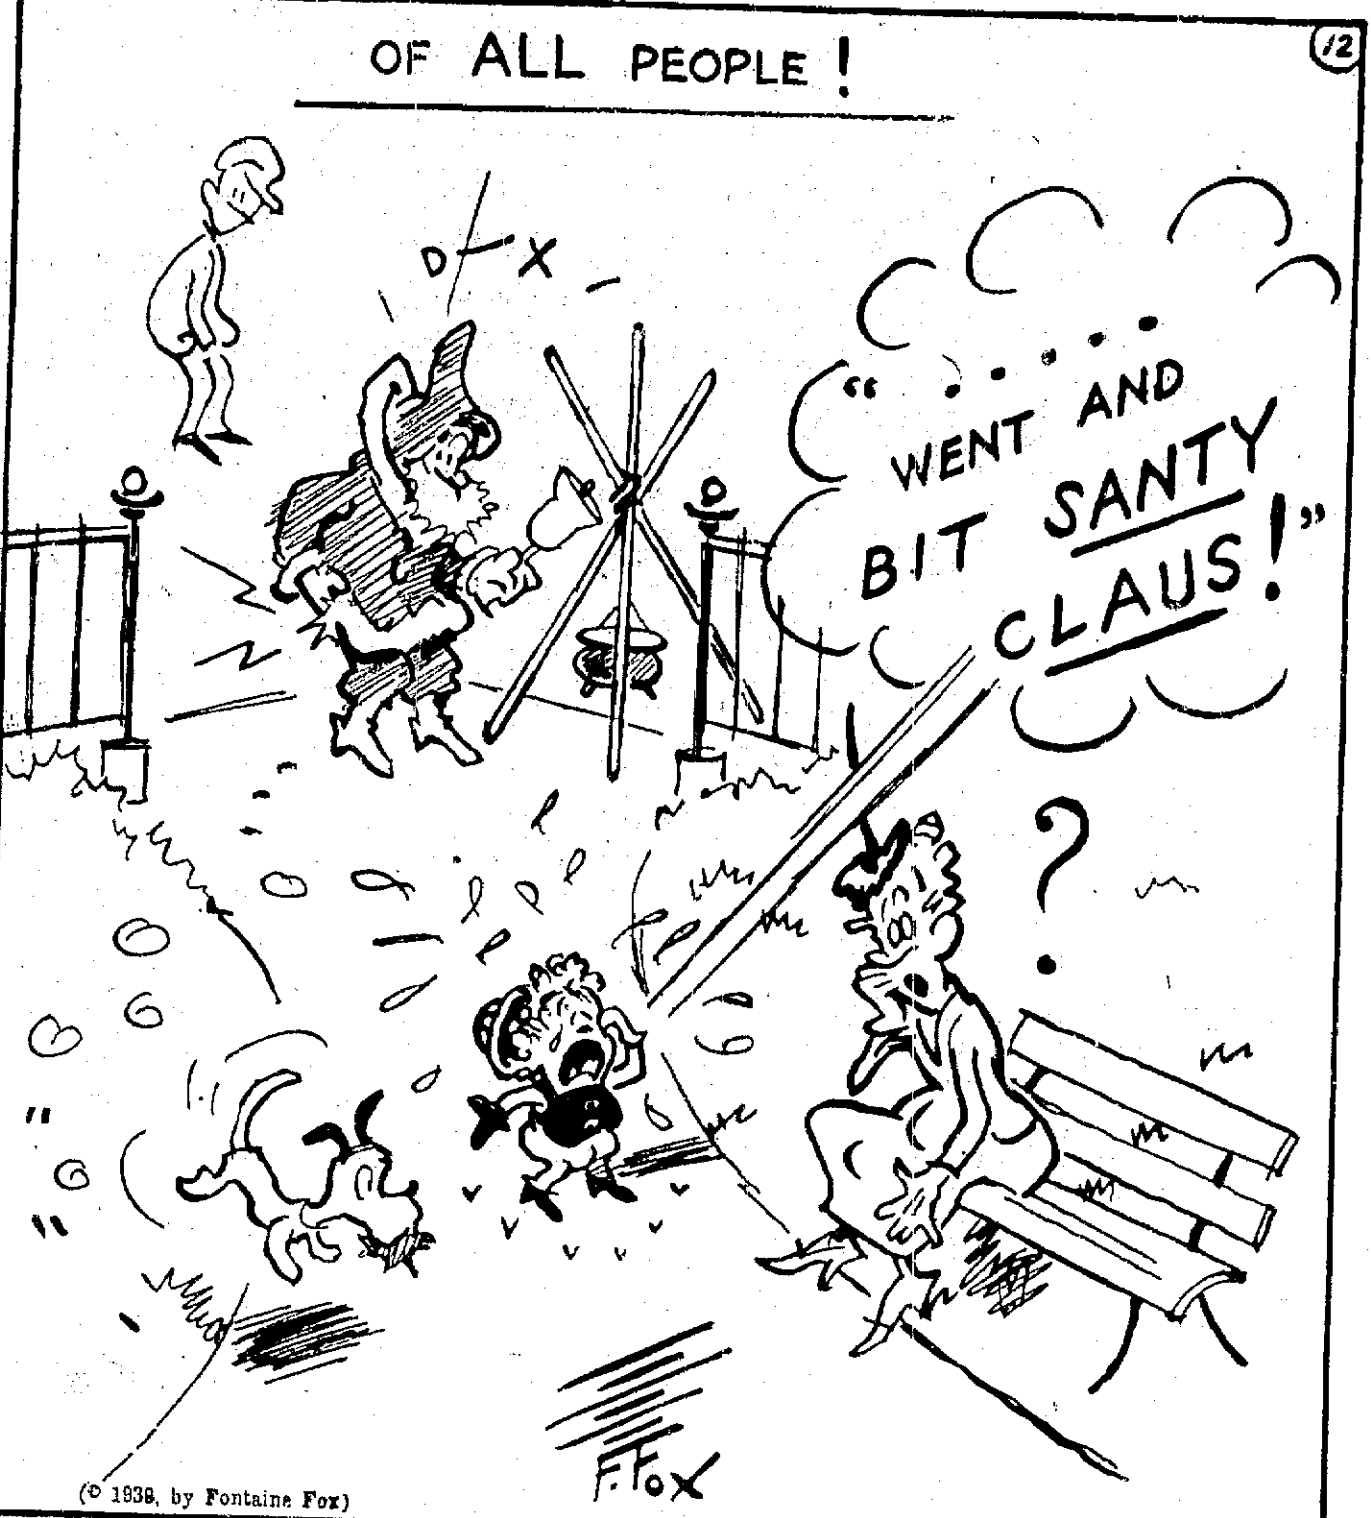

A deer in the Berkshires leaped through a window of a bank and into a customer's lap. It is believed to have been after some doe.

A local man says he is against buying another car until he can find a place to park the one he has.

Quite a few of the boys and girls who have political jobs now are Kickbush—No, I couldn't raise it.

HINTS and DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:35. Sun rises tomorrow 7:12.

Already it is reported that there are ten thousand people on the payroll at Harrisburg who are not needed. That's a heluva lot of people to pay for doing a nice job of loafing in a nice city like Harrisburg.

The wife of an Omaha milk wagon driver got a verdict of ten thousand dollars against a beauty parlor operator because she rode around with her husband in a milk wagon while she was at home looking after his six children. Please pass the permanent waves!

TODAY'S STORYETTE
A man who had a habit of making himself generally obnoxious was told by another member of his club, "I'll give you $25 if you will present your resignation to this organization."

The one thus assailed was insulted, naturally. He went to the president of the club and said so. He squealed on the fellow who had made the suggestion. "Why," he said, "he actually offered me $25 if I would resign."

"Don't let that worry you," said the club president. "It is nothing to get excited about—I'll give you fifty."

A humor spread in Washington, until contradicted that Henry Wallace had gone back on the New Deal. It originated in Henry's remark, "We've got to learn a little common sense."

There are many who have not paid for the Christmas Seals sent to them. This is a great cause and should be supported by all who can possibly afford it. The fight against tuberculosis is a great fight and all who fear it should help in the battle.

Some people will take anything they can get before Christmas just to save Santa Claus a lot of work on his busy day.

Things do not seem to be figured out very well, sighted the clubwoman who had just returned from a lecture. She had heard the explorer say that the Eskimo would just as soon eat his food raw and she thought it was a pretty valuable trait for any husband to learn if his wife had. Lots of important club meetings to attend in the afternoon.

NO STRAIGHTAWAYS
Here's a new story of the Mae West variety.

"Why does it take Mae West so long to dress?" asked the little boy of a caller.

"O don't know, why?"
"Because she has to slow down for the curves."

The administration in Washington don't seem so hot to help Mr. Dies in his war against anti-Americanism. Some of the birds down there might have a good reason to ignore him.

President Roosevelt says he now favors a pay-as-you-go basis. We probably have gone about as far as we can without paying.

Spying is just another way of sneaking. One thing that cannot be done decently is sneaking.

THE WHY OF IT
"How artistic" cooed the girl as she and her escort went into the newest gilt and chromium cocktail bar. "Look at all the tables, all glass and bright metal. It certainly is artistic."

"We didn't do it with artistry in mind," confessed the head waiter. "But we had to find something that forgotten cigars and cigarettes would not burn."

Whether or not you believe unqualifiedly in free speech depends upon (1) who is talking and (2) what he's saying.

CUSTOMARY
"Will you like yourself if I refuse you?" asked Susie Simper anxiously as the new boy friend vowed eternal love for her.

"I usually plan to do so under these circumstances," said the youth, solemnly.

The only time some birds get interested in local affairs is when they want to get something out of it for themselves. Being interested in local affairs all the time is a great thing and no special help would be needed by anyone if all helped all the time.

What's What At A Glance

Conservatives Aid Liberals
Are Ones Who Make Ideas Work
Incoming Congressmen Cited

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 12.—

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, who has about as many intelligent "hunches" as almost all the rest of congress put together, takes the position that political and economic liberals have a virtual monopoly upon worthwhile ideas but that it takes conservatives to make them work. A conservative isn't necessarily a reactionary any more than a liberal necessarily is a radical. Our incoming national legislature promises to be mindfully conservative. Its members are beginning to pile into Washington, and predominantly they talk that way. They don't want to repeal the laws enacted by liberals in the last six years, but they do want to amend them considerably.

In fact, they are favorable to the passage, in modified form, of several new laws which the liberals have tried to put through during the last three sessions but couldn't get majorities for.

Illustratively, the conservatives are as friendly to governmental reorganization as are the liberals. All that the conservatives don't like is the liberals' proposed method of reorganization, in all its details.

The Defense Issue

Then there's the issue of national defensive preparation. This will figure largely in Capitol Hill debate henceforward. Now, if there are two outstanding so-called pacifists in American public life, certainly they are Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska (who voted against Uncle Sam's entrance into the World War) and Representative Louis Ludlow of Indiana (who doesn't want the United States to enter any war without a popular referendum). Yet Senator Norris and Representative Ludlow alike have expressed a willingness, in view of the obviously bilious world situation, to support any reasonable defensive program.

In short there's a certain getting together of conservatives (militaristic) and liberal (pacifistic) sentiment.

It generally is agreed that the

When I was but an infant small in times which I do not recall I'm told there was, by night and day,

A nurse who forced me to obey. A woman with a glaring eye. Designed all males to terrify.

When nurse departed, in parade Ours' aunts who had to be obeyed, And by my deoting grandmas two I was instructed what to do.

Where'er I turned there seemed to be A woman watching over me.

Thought I, some time when older grown, Perhaps they'll leave me quite alone. Or when I marry I may find At last the right to speak my mind.

But not, throughout our married life I've lived according to the wife.

Hints On Etiquette

In signing your Christmas cards, the most up-to-date way is to have your name or names follow the greeting, whether printed or written, just as if you were signing a note. Never use your title of Mr. or Mrs. Instead, sign them "Very best wishes, Helen and John Brown." The woman's name always first.

Words of Wisdom

Mistake not. Those pleasures are not pleasures that trouble the quiet and tranquility of thy life.—Jeremy Taylor.

PLAIN PRESCRIPTION FOR RECOVERY

CREATION of new industries to put men to work, as advocated by Charles F. Kettering of General Motors before the Temporary National Economic Committee, is urgently needed, but money must be put to work first. Here is where the government must enter the picture, but not in the role marked out for it by New Deal advisers.

They would have the government go in for even bigger spending and lending as well as for increased competition with private industry. Each of these activities is now blocking full recovery. None is doing a thing toward making more jobs.

The one way in which the government can help is simply to give business a chance to work out its own recovery.

Waiting around for the discovery of some remarkable invention that will open the way to new industries will get the country nowhere. No miracle is required. Just a dose of ordinary business sense, if the administration can be persuaded to adopt that prescription.

"ASIA FOR THE ASIATICS"

From Foreign Minister Arita's talks with the American and British ambassadors to Japan it is plain that Tokio is inaugurating a radically new era in China, an era in which the open door is to be virtually closed to western nations.

Foreign trade will not be excluded, Arita declares, but in the same breath adds that the principle for the development of China will be "Asia for the Asiatics." American business men may have trouble getting any comfort out of that slogan.

The Japanese contention is that the changed political situation resulting from Tokio's victories in China has outmoded the Nine-Power Pact, which provided that all power should have equal opportunity in China. This treaty may have no further importance for Japan, but it is possible that the other powers that signed it may not be easily reconciled to conceding the point.

Not Japan but the western powers have been responsible for the tremendous development of China. If the open door has benefited other nations it has been the means of recreating China. It is hardly conceivable that either China or Japan will gain measurably through the closing of the door.

In assuming to dominate China and Chinese trade, moreover, the Japanese may be prematurely acting on the principle that victories mean conquest. The conquest of China by Japan, it is possible, is not yet so complete that Tokio can afford to dictate against foreign business.

APPEARS TO BE JUSTIFIABLE SKETICISM

"A treaty at this time," said Senator Borah in discussing the recent solemn covenants entered into by France and Germany, "seems to be but the expression of a day." The same thought has been expressed many times in other words. Cynics have said, quite truthfully, that treaties are made only to be broken. There is high authority that treaties are nothing more than scraps of paper. Surely, in the light of dismal history, none but the naive will claim that they have meaning or force, that they are guarantees of peace or expressions of sincerity of purpose.

"There is at present no way, no rules by which to judge the effect of a treaty in Europe," Senator Borah continued, "and therefore it would be idle to undertake to estimate the worth of a treaty between Germany and France." This is not, however, quite an accurate summary of the situation. There is a way to determine the value of the pledged word of the dictators. It involves simply a review of their utterances as contrasted with their performances.

When has Hitler kept a pledge, an agreement or a treaty when his interests were to be served by deliberate and flagrant violation? It is doubtful if any instance can be recalled. In fact, it was only a short time after the annexation of Austria and his announcement that he had no further territorial ambitions in Europe that he seized the Sudetenland from Czechoslovakia. And who is so foolish as to believe that the remainder of Czechoslovakia, or Rumania or the Ukraine or any other land upon which Hitler has cast covetous eyes is safe?

And Mussolini, it will be recalled, announced to the world after the seizure of Ethiopia that Italy was a contented land, that there would be no more war, no more conquests, no more imperialistic ambitions. But Italy has since then aided an undeclared war in Spain and is now beating the drums and striving to enlist German aid in a raid upon Tunisia, Corsica and other French possessions.

A great many treaties and agreements have been entered into since Versailles, all of them designed to advance security and peace. And all of them have gone by the boards the moment it became expedient to tear them to bits and cast them to the winds.

Aren't words wonderful! "Being financed" sounds so much nicer than "going in debt."

What's Right With America?

by Mary E. Woolley, Educator.

"What's right with America?" There's a great deal that is right with America in spite of first-page news to the contrary. If one is tempted to question that statement let him go out of the country for a season and note the thrill which the sight of the Goddess of Liberty brings!

Among the blessings which America bestows, I would put first and foremost, freedom. First, think what it means to have freedom of religion. Can you imagine how it would seem to be told what and how one was to worship? To be forbidden to follow the dictates of one's conscience—to whatever "isms" they might lead?

Second, I rejoice in freedom of speech. We must admit that it is carried rather far in this good land of ours, but the freedom to carry it far, what possessor of a sane mind would relinquish that right? I am in sympathy with the sentiments of a fellow citizen, who returning

To Put Green
On Poles Here

Last Of Christmas Decorations Are Being Put In Place Today

Finishing touches on the Christmas decoration job were started today, as workmen began placing green pine branches on the poles along North Liberty street.

The addition of this greenery adds a great deal to the attractiveness of the decorations. Saturday night, the Christmas lights were turned on for the first time, and they presented a pleasing sight.

All of this Christmas decorating is under the sponsorship of the Seventh Ward Civic Club.

Benefit Dance Is
Thursday Evening

Everything is now in readiness for the benefit dance to be held Thursday evening in the Knights of Malta hall, East Washington street. The dance is sponsored by the Seventh Ward-Civic club for the purpose of raising funds to pay for the light display now in use in the district.

According to the committee in charge of this event, games of bingo and cards will be provided for those who do not wish to dance.

All of the lighting strings were bought outright for the community, and they will be used in future years with but a minimum of expense.

CANTATA GROUP MEETING TONIGHT

A special meeting for members of the choir of the Mahoning Methodist church who are to take part in the coming Christmas cantata will be held tonight at 7 o'clock in the church.

This cantata, entitled "Star in the East," will be presented on the Sunday before Christmas. The choir group is working under the leadership of Miss Jane Kyle.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Quite attractive were the Christmas lights turned on both Saturday and Sunday nights in the Seventh Ward. This is the first time in the history of the ward that lights have been strung for Christmas.

The supply of Christmas literature at the Mahoningtown branch library has been quite popular during the past week. There is still some literature available containing Christmas plays, poems and the like.

New license tags, addressed to residents of the Seventh Ward are starting to pass through the Mahoningtown post office quite rapidly now.

Workmen are making good progress on the new power sub-station on North Cedar street. Concrete forms for new iron work have been poured on one-half of the layout, and workmen are digging for the foundations for the other half.

Former Well Known
Actress Recovering
From Long Illness

Eva Tanguay, Now 60, Shows Remarkable Courage And Fights Off Illness

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.—Her life has been a struggle since last Friday, Eva Tanguay has rallied and early today her physician, Dr. W. W. Starr declared she believes she will recover.

Saturday night the musical comedy and vaudeville star of a past generation, now 60 years old, was in such a critical condition Dr. Starr expected her to live for only a few hours.

Told by friends that the end was near, Miss Tanguay reflected the philosophy of the "I don't care" song she made famous and a part of her theatrical personality by telling them:

"It's all right. It has to come some time, and my life has been a full one."

Yesterday the former star began an amazing rally and today was holding her gains.

She had shown the same courageous spirit in 1932, when another long and desperate illness left her blind. Her sight was later restored by two operations.

She had been bedridden for a year with arthritis and complications before her current illness.

Chestnut Crop Best In Years

Forest Product Destroyed By Blight Is Doing Comeback

NEW NUT CROP RIPS EARLY

HARRISBURG—Secretary James F. Bogardus, of the State Department of Forests and Waters, said today that reports received from district foresters throughout the State indicate that the chestnut crop this year in Pennsylvania is better than it has been for a number of seasons. In many sections of the State Bogardus reports, it has been found that the chestnuts burrs are large, and filled with plump chestnuts, which is probably due to the favorable growing season of the past summer. Most of the chestnuts found today in the forests of the state come from young sprouts on which the burrs start to crack open as early as the first of October. The burrs of the original chestnut forests seldom open before the first heavy frost.

In commenting upon the return of the chestnut in Pennsylvania, Secretary Bogardus said that high hopes were being entertained for the success of experimental plantings now being conducted on state forest areas. He said that the chestnut may make a strong comeback in Pennsylvania some time in the future.

A variety of nut-bearing trees is found in Pennsylvania. The chestnut, probably the best known nut-bearing tree of North America was the most sought after nut until the appearance of the chestnut blight some years ago.

There are today growing in the Pennsylvania State Forests, chestnut seedlings, the nuts of which have come from Connecticut, New Jersey, Michigan and Ohio and other states, as well as from Asia and Europe. It has been found that from ninety to ninety-five per cent of the nuts which were planted have germinated successfully.

The purpose of these plantings is to determine whether the trees that result, show increased resistance to the chestnut blight when attacked by this bark disease.

The outlook for the future of the chestnut in Pennsylvania is promising. The nuts produced each year are viable and those that escape destruction by squirrels and mice are germinating and growing into young chestnut sapplings.

The chestnut blight is a bark disease of Asiatic origin brought into the country on nursery stock imported from Europe. The disease first appeared in Pennsylvania in 1900 and so rapidly was its spread and so complete the destruction it wrought, that within the next ten years, hardly a single tree in the entire chestnut stand escaped.

New Castle Feeding Grounds No. 1 Legion of the Moose, held their annual venison dinner Sunday in the Moose Temple, South Mercer St. A large class of candidates was initiated at the meeting on Sunday afternoon, at which time legionnaires from all Western Pennsylvania were present.

The dinner was served to 200 legionnaires, their wives and sweethearts, in the Moose dining room. Great North Moose Walter Ringer was master of ceremonies. Mr. Ringer furnished the venison which was served at this dinner, having shot a large deer while on a hunting trip. He told the assemblage of how he bagged the deer and also of being attacked by a large deer and his thrilling escape.

Following, Joseph Jenkins presented an inspiring address. He told of how District Legion No. 1 is now in first class in membership and the entire Moose domain. Beautiful dinner music was furnished by the marimba rhythm band. The band's vocalist, Lois Chaddock, was heartily applauded for the beautiful songs. This ten piece band of young men and women holds the distinction of being the only marimba band between New York and Chicago.

The three Moose jesters were also featured on the program. This dinner was prepared by a committee of legionnaires and served by the Women of the Moose.

TREASURE HUNT
Some workmen were engaged in excavating operations. The usual crowd was watching, and one of them said to a workman, "My man, what are you digging for?" The workman looked up. "Money," he said briefly. The onlooker smiled tolerantly. "Money, eh?" he said. "And when do you expect to strike it?" "Saturday," replied the workman, resuming operation.

Broadcasts directed at Germany needn't try to put over pages of propaganda. Just repeat the word "Shame!"

Three Sides of Custody Fight

A new kind of Solomon was needed in Newark, N. J., court when three women claimed custody of Eugene Catalda, 10. The boy is pictured (top) between Mrs. Genevieve Travers (left), who said she gave birth to him in prison, and Mrs. Lena De Angelo, who said he is hers by adoption. Bottom, Mrs. Gilda Catalda, followed by husband, screams for the boy as she leaves court.

HOME VISITORS MAY BE HIRED BY SCHOOLS

HARRISBURG—The General Assembly has made it possible for every school district in the State of Pennsylvania to employ a Home and School Visitor. The 1937 Legislature empowered the board of school directors to employ one or more persons to be known as Home and School Visitor, and any school district employing a Visitor will be reimbursed by the State on the same basis as they are now reimbursed for elementary school teachers. During the school year of 1936-1937, there were only 114 Home and School Visitors in Pennsylvania. Under Section 1432 of Act 478 it will be possible to place approximately fifteen hundred visitors in the school districts of the State. The penalty for surrounding yourself with yes-men is that your conscience learns to behave the same way.

Ask For Increase In Police Salaries

Members of the city police department urged city council this morning to give Chief of Police Ralph A. Criswell a salary in keeping with his position and responsibilities, and to restore their wages to the level which the police formerly received. Council said it would be necessary to change the proposed 1939 budget, were this done and indicated the present outlook did not warrant favorable action on the petition.

The petition pointed out that the police chief here is paid far less than police chiefs of many cities the size of New Castle. They said police chiefs in many cities the size of New Castle receive from $2,000 to $2,500 a year. The police chief here receives $168 a month and patrolmen $148 a month.

Suicide Adds To Slaying Mystery

Defendant In Supposed Slaying Found Dead In Jail Cell

MOTHER IS HELD IN SAME CASE

(International News Service)
SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 12.—One of America's greatest slaying mysteries, the supposed slaying ten years ago of James E. Bassett, became even more involved today with the jail cell suicide of one defendant, 44-year-old Decastro E. Mayer, in the "murder trial without a body."

Decastro Mayer's suicide was an "obvious confession of guilt," Prosecutor B. Gray Warner prepared to press the case against the remaining defendant, 73-year-old Mrs. Mary Eleanor Smith, who claimed to be Mayer's mother.

The bizarre trial reached a startling and unexpected climax when the body of Mayer was found by a jailer making his regular rounds. He had been dead about an hour.

The mystery figure, linked with several other Pacific Northwest murders, had choked himself to death by crumpling a piece of paper down his throat and then tightly fastening a belt around his neck. To make sure he wouldn't weaken in his resolve as death overtook him, he had tied his wrists together with a strip torn from a blanket.

Suicide Note
A suicide note addressed to Mrs. Smith said:

"Dearest Mother:
"Words are sometimes meaningless. I am tired and wish to depart from a place wherein is oppression, and leave the house to tell its builder's fate, and for the place I leave, I shall find another land. Everything is all right with me, and it will be easier for you in the future."

"Lovingly, Earl.
"P. S.—You will receive help. I prefer just cremation without a box, etc."

Collapsing when informed of Mayer's suicide, Mrs. Smith later was allowed to view the body at her own request.

She fell upon the form, kissing the body and screaming, "My boy! My boy!"

Hoping the shock of Mayer's death would induce her to make revelations, Prosecutor Warner and other authorities questioned her at length after she was taken back to her cell, especially concerning the whereabouts of Bassett's body, but she would make no statement.

A "suicide watch" was placed over her in fear she might also attempt to take her own life.

The stoical Mayer, serving a life term as a habitual criminal, had made no threats to kill himself and had appeared well satisfied with progress of the trial.

Trial of Mrs. Smith was scheduled to continue without interruption despite Mayer's suicide. Her attorney is expected to enter a plea for mistrial similar to that attempted for Mayers.

Pittsburgh In Need Of Money

Will Attempt To Collect Delinquent Taxes And Solve Financial Crisis

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12.—Facing organized public opposition to Mayor Cornelius D. Scully's plan to increase taxes 10 per cent during 1939, city council prepared today to move on two fronts in an attempt to collect delinquent taxes and solve the city's financial crisis.

Councilman George E. Evans disclosed that two plans were under consideration, the first involving foreclosure action against 5,000 properties on which the tax delinquencies exceeded the appraised value and the second, sequestration proceedings as authorized by the state act of 1935.

Evans said the 5,000 properties were, for the most part, vacant lots, abandoned business buildings and disused estates. He said foreclosure actions, endorsed by the city school board on several occasions would be started as soon as possible.

At the same time, the city councilman announced that the city intended to go to court Wednesday and test validity of the sequestration proceedings which provide for control of delinquent property until all back taxes are paid. The action will be started against a building in the downtown area which is 22 years in arrears in taxes.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Ah, woe, I cannot even smell the rose.
There must be some disorder in my nose.
Right—the sense of smell is located in the nose.
The olfactory organ is a delicate membrane up in the nose.
Nerve fibers extend from here into the brain.
We breathe, ordinarily, only in the lower part of the nose.
But comes some suspicion of odor and we sniff deeply.
This draws the air up into the nose.
Animals smell to find food and to detect enemies.
Man's olfactory organs are mainly for esthetic purposes.
Perfumes, tobacco, essences—these are for humans.
The common cold minimizes the sense of smell temporarily.

Relief Rolls In State Increased
(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—Sharp curtailment of the Federal Works program was attributed today to the reversal in Pennsylvania's direct relief load from a seven-week decline to a decidedly noticeable increase of more than 190 cases during the week ending December 2.

Secretary of Public Assistance Arthur W. Howe, Jr., said the rise was also reflected by a falling off in the number of cases leaving the rolls because of current gains in private employment and an increase in the number of cases added because of past losses in private employment.

During the week ending December 3, Howe disclosed, the direct relief load zoomed upwards with a total increase of 1,535 cases, representing 4,799 persons. This sharp rise, he added, followed seven consecutive weekly reductions which removed almost 73,000 persons from the rolls.

On December 3, Howe reported the relief load numbered 204,059 cases, representing 622,021 persons.

Story Of Prodigal Son Will Be Told

A full house heard Evangelists Jarrette and Dell Aycock at the Nazarene church, corner of Beaver and Falls streets, yesterday and a number came forward for prayer at both the morning and evening service.

Tonight, Rev. Aycock will take for his subject, "The Story of the Prodigal Son," telling again the old, old story of the boy who ran away, only to find that after all "he is ever so humble, there's no place like home."

Tuesday night is to be a special service in which there will be no congregational singing, but beginning promptly at 7:30 the evangelists will sing and play with guitar accompaniment, old time sacred gospel songs of mother, home and heaven.

After an hour of special song, Jarrette Aycock will bring a short message. Large crowds usually attend these services and a capacity crowd is expected. There will be services each night this week.

Girl Makes Up Attack Story

(International News Service)
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 12.—Police find the best way to crack a tough case is to get a confession, the juvenile detective association heard today from an authoritative source.

The report was made by member Dorothy Parbs, 14.

Dorothy walked into a precinct station and waited that she had been kidnapped by a group of boys. She exhibited a black eye and cross scratches on her cheek with razor blade as proof.

A search for her tormentors was fruitless and the officers questioned Dorothy some more.

She had admitted she had punched herself in the eye and cut her own cheek.

"Our crime club wanted to find out how real detectives work" she explained.

A statement from the cardinal to that effect was delivered over a nationwide network yesterday.

It was emphasized that any utterances of the Detroit "Radio Priest" do not represent the sentiments or doctrines of the church.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock in the high school, Scotland Lane, and an effort is being made to have every public spirited citizen residing in the district at the meeting.

Music will be furnished during the meeting by the high school band, under the leadership of LeRoy Rowley.

Says Father Coughlin Does Not Represent Church In Addresses

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Through George Cardinal Mundelein, the Catholic church today washed its hands of any part in the radio broadcasts made by Father Charles E. Coughlin.

Deanna Durbin's Rise In Two Years Phenomenal

By MILTON HARKER
(Copyright 1938, INS)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.—If you look first at a little six-room bungalow in Palms and then at a substantial two-story home, with a private swimming pool, in the exclusive Los Feliz hills, you get a fair idea quickly of the phenomenal two-year rise of Deanna Durbin, just turned 16.

Palms is a little community in the flats near the great Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. Few of its residents pay more than $35 to $50 a month rent. The Los Feliz area is one of the town's swankiest, so swanky, in fact, Leslie Howard once abandoned search for a home there because he couldn't get the seclusion he desired for less than $600 a month.

Deanna's parents, James and Ada, got what they wanted for less than half that because they are conservative. They already are understood to have laid up a nest egg of more than $100,000 for their talented daughter's future. But, there's far more in different living than the actual 15 miles that separates that bungalow where Deanna was discovered and the home in which she lives today.

It was Universal's "Three Smart

Girls" that lifted Deanna from the bottom to the top of the ladder in one fell swoop just around Christmas, 1936. It's Universal's "Three Smart Girls Grow Up" that she is beginning now. It's only her fifth picture.

Deanna, who could sing from childhood, was discovered when M-G-M was looking for a girl to play Mme. Schumann-Heink as a child in "Gram," a picture later abandoned. Deanna was brought to Louis B. Mayer's office when he happened to be in New York. Mrs. Ida Koverman, his secretary, had her sing over the phone to him. She was signed immediately.

But that's all that happened. Following its usual custom, M-G-M dropped her at the end of six months because she hadn't appeared in a picture. Rufus Le Maire, in the talent department there, took a similar post at Universal and told Charles Rogers, then studio head, about Deanna. She was promptly signed.

Then M-G-M promptly borrowed her for a short picture to bring out Judy Garland. It wasn't until "Three Smart Girls" came out that Mayer was reported to have almost torn out his hair at the mere thought of what his studio had lost.

more envy than horror. It may get to a point where politicians will stir sympathy for unhappy dogs who can get nothing better than roast beef and T-bone steak.

Never did the food business, serving man and beast, get such a going over as now. As the old song had it, "they fed the baby garlic so they could find him in the dark." Now, not only garlic, but its remote relative, the onion, are found to have all sorts of curative properties, and whatever they feed the baby or his grand-pappy is cunningly devised for his health and well-being.

The onion, for instance, is credited with having knocked out rheumatism and arthritis in Italy, where it has been extensively eaten in spots where there was little else at hand. They find that the fragrance of the onion has germicidal properties, and that it may be helpful in curing colds. This useful property rests in something called thioaldehyde, which nature implants in the onion to enable it to resist the "smut" disease.

Just as the Germans did two years ago, the initiative Japanese start a national build-up for whale steak by an imposing public function at which prominent citizens acted as come-ons and shillers for the multitude and manifested great gustatory delight in stowing away a big slab of Leviathan.

Both nations are at work on big sea-going whale-catching and rendering plants, while Japan works up a series of "national policy lunches" to start a public clamor for such refreshment. We have "Moby Dick" as testimony that whale meat may be eaten, but we never got in the way of demanding it at the family butcher shop—just stick-and-knives compared with up-and-coming nations like Germany and Japan. To these countries, a man-size slab of tenderloin, or a round or pork chops spells "decadent parliamentarianism."

Yuletide always stirs interest in varied and zestful eating. This particular Winter solstice finds in full swing a food revolution in the progress of the "quick-freezing" method. The volume of frozen fish produced in the United States between 1929 and 1936 increased from 82,711,150 pounds to 121,484,365 and the curve is still going up. Food-packaging is changing, progressing and proliferating bewilderingly.

This is one of the best oyster crops in years, thanks to the abundant rains, sluicing down food to the oyster beds. Incidentally, an oyster crop takes four years, to harvest time, starting with the "seed crop." The starfish and the drill, their ancient enemies, prey on them relentlessly, but now the growers find a way to knock out their foe by slaked lime, and little old homo sapiens scores another point against adversity. Looking at his long list of victories, one doesn't wonder that he gets a bit chesty and starts rigging pajamas for his dog.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

You can't keep a good dog out of the news. At a Park Avenue fashion show, pajamas and rubbers for the pooch are exhibited, modeled by dog mannikins. It may be a long time before they get around to the under-privileged of dogdom, but the fashion czars make it clear that you're a pretty poor specimen of a citizen unless your little dog's wardrobe is stocked with the proper night-gear—the better if it's by Lavin or Schiaparelli.

The other item has to do with chicken dinners for dogs. Government-inspected chickens are used in a new brand of dog provender.

with a dash of beef by-products, cod-liver oil, minerals and tomatoes. Dogs are said to eat it dutifully, even zestfully.

All in all, a dog's life isn't so bad these days. Many experiments are being made in new kinds of dog food, one of them being the use of the soy bean, high in protein, as a substitute for the cheaper brands of meat. It is reported that it is highly successful and many dog aficionados, or dictionians who prescribe for dogs, to be more exact, are recommending it.

A Washington politician tried to fan up an election issue over dog food a couple of years ago. He said, and it seemed to be true, that many thousands of sovereign citizens, bucking the depression, had found that dog food gave them much more nourishment for their money than the usual run of groceries. That sounded bad—people eating dog food, but, today, it would stir

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Dec. 12.—"Big figure" stories seem to run in spurts at the state capital. . . . Usually when one fiscal affairs news item develops, another pops up almost at the same time. . . . The biennial budget always stirs up a nest of these. . . . But for plain bigness of numbers this week-end's campaign expense accounting and the WPA employment slash story will suffice.

"Big figures" . . . Republicans said they spent $716,649 and had received $718,121. . . . Democrats reported they spent $636,532 and received $646,842. . . . Biggest single item on the Democratic sheet was the $248,800 from the Hundred Dollar Dinner club (yep—$100 per plate). . . . The Democrats touched such individuals as Senator Guffey, Minister to Norway Tony Biddle and Mrs. Biddle, Matt McCloskey and Walter Grosscup for contributions.

The first campaign expense to be filed with the State Bureau of Elections was that of the Pathfinder party. . . . Charles W. Carroll, chairman and treasurer of the independent party, filed an expense account of $1,768.98, all of which was contributed by Carroll.

Carroll, who is a Republican when he is not a Pathfinder, is incidentally, dissatisfied with the national leadership of the Republican party. . . . Carroll has frequently expressed his dissatisfaction on former occasions of the leadership of the Republican party in Pennsylvania. . . . Now with Gov.-Elect Arthur H. James, whose cause Carroll espoused, at the head of the state party, Carroll has turned his attention to the national situation.

He sent this telegram to National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton during the meeting of the national

Initial Concert Is Well Received

Sunday evening a large audience attended the initial concert of the season given at the Emanuel Baptist church, by the New Castle Male Chorus, conducted by Miss Gladys Thomas, with Miss Ann Thomas, as accompanist. They were assisted by John Pecano, orchestra. The renditions of both organizations were well received by the audience. Rev. Rest T. Williams, of the First Congregational church, presided at the concert.

Thinking people don't resent needed reform. They just hate to see it done by Go-as-I-say fellows, who never were elected.

The noble and grammatical last words of old timers don't prove anything except that reporters haven't changed.

Dr. Dafoe's Column
On The Quintuplets
And The Care
Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1938, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MORE ON VITAMINS—D.
The Quintuplets were born at least two months prematurely and so, with them, as with all premature children, we had the problem of rickets to face.

Almost from the time they were born, these children showed evidence of this condition. We wanted to cure them as quickly as we could, because we wanted strong, healthy bodies. So we started out systematically to see that all five of them were fed products which contained plenty of Vitamin D. For this is the vitamin that cures and prevents rickets.

Of course with the Quints we were somewhat handicapped. A few days after birth they weighed only nine and three-quarters pounds, together, and poor little Marie tipped the scale at one and one-half pounds. They were not enough food; they were so small and weak they didn't seem able to take much nourishment at a time.

Finally it came to the point where we had to force-feed them with Breck feeders. This has a nipple on the end of a glass barrel, with a bulb at the other end. We gave them feedings every two hours, and by doing this we made them grow. From the third day of birth they got breast milk pasteurized.

But there wasn't enough Vitamin D in this food, for they really needed an overdose. Accordingly, a few weeks later we began giving them fruit juice and tomato juice. This didn't contain enough of the amount of the vitamin we wanted them to have, so shortly afterward we gave them the vitamin concentrated in the form of viosterol.

This has to be given in small doses, because it is so concentrated. In fact, no parent should give it to a young child except under the instructions of a physician.

Viosterol can be given in milk without affecting its taste. Even if given in larger doses we found that it didn't do any harm to the Quintuplets. In fact, when they were a couple of years old, we had some X-ray pictures taken of them. On the ends of the long bones at their wrists, we saw the extra calcium which indicated where that extra Vitamin D we had given them had gone. This did the children no harm, and certainly we were glad to see that they had outgrown any evidences that they had been the victims of rickets.

When they were a few months old we changed from viosterol to our old friend, cod-liver oil. They have had it practically every day since. The result is that we have no "square heads" amongst them; neither have we any bowed legs or "rickety rosary" along the edges of the ribs—these are little bumps on each rib, one under the other, something like beads on a rosary; neither do we have swellings at ankles and wrists.

What we have is five well-formed healthy children. One of the reasons for this is we have seen that they get their Vitamin D in their cod-liver oil every day.

Mothers, prospective and nursing, should see to it that they have plenty of this sunshine vitamin.

Practically the only common food which supplies Vitamin D is milk—fresh, condensed, canned or powdered. Sufficient of the vitamins can be added through irradiation.

But by the time we got out to Lower Saranac Lake and left the cars for the day she was droppin' fast... and come sundown it was 30° below. We had to get back to town or freeze! And of all the cars on the lake, mine was the only one with Blue Sunoco in the tank—and the only one to start; kicked right over and instead of eatin' I had to tow the weak sisters so they could start. That's why I tell everybody—Blue Sunoco."

Registration Clerk Thomas Edmunds, reports that eighteen persons presented themselves for registration on Friday, the first day that the books were thrown open for new registrations, changes of address, or party affiliation. In the list appearing Friday eight changed their party affiliation from Democratic to Republican, six were new registrations, and four were changes of address. The registration bureau was busy Saturday forenoon registering applicants and changes.
Deputy Prothonotary, Elmer Nesbit, on Saturday morning swore in the new stipstaves, Henry J. Sines, Timothy J. Mitchell and J. Charles Strimmar. Court crier Clifford Vance took the new stipstaves around and explained to them their duties.
Letters of administration in the estate of the late William A. McKean of Little Beaver township, have been granted by Register and Recorder, Orville Potter to Isabelle Walt McKean. Letters testamentary in the estate of Mary Mabel Wallace have been granted to John M. Wallace.
No more will love sick couples who are in too much of a hurry to wait three days for a marriage license here, be able to tie themselves to Maryland. Prothonotary John A. Edgar has received word that the new marriage license law of Maryland went into effect on last Friday. The Maryland law now provides a wait of forty-eight hours between the application for a marriage license and the issuance of the permit to wed. All of the nearby states now have marriage license laws similar to that in effect in Lawrence county.

Petition for a special allocatur to bring the case before the court, has been presented in the case of the Commonwealth against Russell R. Smith. On November 26th, F. J. Norris of the State Highway patrol, made an information before Justice of the Peace William J. Eakin of the Scott township, charging Smith with a violation of the motor code, and reckless driving. At a hearing before Squire Eakin he was adjudged guilty. Mr. Smith denies that he was driving recklessly at the time of an accident, and wishes a hearing before the court. No date has yet been fixed.
William Burnside, in charge of the WPA workmen making repairs around the court house reports a freak of nature in a tree that was cut down on the Boyles property. It was really two trees in one. Two tree trunks, about four inches each in diameter, stood over a foot apart at the root. There were entirely separate trunks up a distance of about eight feet when the two trees merged into one trunk about eight inches in diameter, the merger being perfect. A landscape gardener who examined the freak, was of the opinion that one tree had been grafted into the other.

Clifford Vance, court crier, believes in old fashioned economy, as evidenced by his care of the steel pens, used by the court and by the prothonotary and attorneys in the court room. There are about a dozen of these pens. Every day, after court has adjourned, Vance takes the pens to a spigot, washes them off and dries them carefully. The result is that the pens are lasting about ten times as long as they formerly did.
County commissioners, sitting as a board of appeals, are hearing complaints from the fourth and fifth wards of Ellwood City, and the boroughs of Enon, New Wilmington, South New Castle, Volant and Wampum to-day. So far very few complaints have been made in the districts heard.

MAY CANCEL DATE FOR MISS PERKINS
BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 12.—Announcement is expected soon from the Women's Student Council of Geneva college that the engagement of Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor in the Roosevelt cabinet, in February would be cancelled.
Reports were widespread that the American Legion and other patriotic societies had planned protests to the proposed visit of Miss Perkins here, and it was understood one protest was carried to the Geneva college faculty. No confirmation of the story was available at Geneva today.

Secret Service Warns Merchants On Counterfeits

Bill Passers Are Most Active At Holiday Season Government States

There is always a considerable increase in the circulation of counterfeit notes during the holiday season, the secret Service Division of the United States Treasury Department warns, in advising local merchants to be on the guard against these phony bills at this time.

Crowded stores with busy clerks and small neighborhood stores are the favorite spots where the counterfeit note passers work. Merchants are advised to examine all bills handed them, especially when presented by strangers, making small purchases.

If a bad bill is spotted, merchants are warned not to return it to passer, but to notify the police or secret service at once. If possible it is advised to delay the passer until the police arrive. If he leaves before the police arrive, secure a good description of him and write it down. Take the license number of any autos involved.

The phone number of the nearest secret service station is Court 0515, Pittsburgh, their address being 513 Post Office Building.

"A Christmas Carol" Will Open Tonight

Provincial Players To Present Dickens Work In East Side Playhouse

Old Schooge, Marley's Ghost, Tiny Tim, Bob Cratchit, the Ghost of Christmas, these and the other characters in Dickens' work, "A Christmas Carol" will parade across the stage of the Provincial theatre to-night when the Provincial Players open a four day presentation.

For weeks the players have been rehearsing, building sets and improving their intimate little theatre at the corner of Washington and Bedford streets. They are ready to open tonight and will continue the play through Thursday.

In the announcement of the cast recently, three of the characters were omitted in error. They are, "Scrooge as a little boy" Earl Dean Jr., "Spirit of Christmas Present, Florence Groden; "Spirit of Christmas Past, Janita Brenner.

During the four night presentation of the play a group of seven paintings done by Mrs. J. B. Pyle, of Moody avenue will be exhibited. It has been the practice of the Provincial Players during other play presentations to exhibit the work of local artists, and the pictures tonight are merely a continuation of that practice.

Dick Powell And Joan Blondell To Enjoy Vacations

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.—Joan Blondell and Dick Powell, who made their screen debuts, met and married on the Warner Brothers' lot, were released from contract today by the studio following months of bickering.

The studio announced the contracts of both stars had been settled "amicably", leaving both free to carry out plans to free-lance, as soon as they complete their current pictures. The crooner will check off the lot next week, and his wife shortly after Christmas. Both said they would take an extended vacation before undertaking any new commitments.

The comedienne and her husband have been dissatisfied with roles assigned them. Powell's contract had two months yet to run, and his wife's six months.

Lower Rates on Loans over $100

No co-signers or endorsers
No embarrassment or delay

Repay in equal monthly installments

Am I getting the lowest rate that I can on my loan? That's a question to ask yourself when you borrow. It's good business to borrow at bank rates if you can. But many cannot or do not want to borrow from banks. If you are one of the thousands who prefer to deal with a licensed personal loan company you should know this fact about rates.

On all loans of more than $100 Household Finance charges substantially less than the lawful maximum rates. Household makes over 700,000 loans a year. This great volume of business lowers our overhead while efficient management reduces our losses and cuts our collection costs. Customers share in this saving by obtaining lower rates on loans of more than $100. On a loan of $150 repaid in 18 months, for instance, your saving in charges at Household's rate is $4.42. On a $200 loan repaid in the same period your saving is $4.62.

No endorsers—Quick service

You can get a loan at Household Finance on your own signature (married couples sign together). There's no need to ask friends or relatives to sign with you—no need to wait for your loan. Usually you get the money the same day you apply.

For your convenience Household arranges your payments in equal monthly installments. You will find that this plan makes budgeting of payments a simple matter. Look in the table below for the monthly payment on the loan you need.

You may take 10 to 18 months to repay your Household loan

You Borrow	18 monthly payments including interest and principal*	You Borrow	18 monthly payments including interest and principal*
$60	$4.36	$200	$14.18
80	5.82	225	15.87
100	7.27	250	17.55
150	10.77	275	19.23
175	12.48	300	20.91

*Your last payment may vary slightly from the amount indicated.

The above payments are calculated at Household Finance's rate of 3% monthly on balances of $100 or less, 2% monthly on balances above $100 to $300, if made when due these payments will repay the loan in full including charges.

Check These Features of the HOUSEHOLD FINANCE PLAN

1. Anyone may apply to Household Finance for a loan of $20 to $300 on furniture, car or note.
2. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives.
3. You get your money quickly, in most cases the day you apply.
4. To help you repay your loan faster we will, if you wish, give you practical suggestions on home money management and better buy-manip.
5. Household Finance's monthly charge—3% on balances of $100 or less, 2% monthly on balances above $100 to $300—is less than the lawful maximum on all loans above $100.
6. You do not have to ask anyone to sign for you, or endorse your note. Single persons sign alone, husband and wife sign together. No salary or wage assignment required.

Saxons Split

With Youngstown

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 12.—At their Saturday games with the Youngstown Saxons, the local Junior Saxons split the scores again, the girls losing 27 to 19 and the boys winning 49 to 21.

Dropping a hard fought game, the local girls threw a real scare into the Steeltowners after being held scoreless in the first period and rallying sufficiently to play on even terms in the second chapter and to outscore their opponents in the final periods.

"Roc" Segedi, local star forward, has hit her former stride, being high scorer for the evening with 13 points and had the local made good free throws they would have won over the current champions.

The girls have bolstered their squad with the addition of another one of the athletic Segedi family. Kathryn, although diminutive, has the making of a real player from whom Saxons expect much in future games.

After trailing in the initial chapter, the boys came back to outscore the Steeltowners in the final three periods easily winning by a big score, although the score is no indication of the hard fought game the locals had on their hands. Coach Andy Kretschmer was well pleased with the showing of his squad and had ordered practice sessions on Tuesday and Thursday at the Shelby court to point them for their invasion of Farrell next Saturday night.

A dance followed the game at the Youngstown Saxon club.

Judge Alessandrini Speaks To Italians

Lodges Of City Join In Welcoming Grand Venerable Of Sons Of Italy

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 12.—Members of the Sons of Italy, Verona D'Italia and Italo Balbo lodges of Ellwood City joined in welcoming Hon. Judge Eugenio V. Alessandrini of Philadelphia, at an Italian celebration in this city on Saturday afternoon.

Judge Alessandrini, grand venerable of the order of the Sons of Italy in Pennsylvania, addressed the public at Lincoln high school auditorium on Saturday afternoon. Being especially interested in the welfare of the younger generation, he urged that group to maintain the high standards of the lodges.

Burgess William McGilney and J. E. Schill of the Chamber of Commerce welcomed the Italian dignitary and presented him to the audience.

Later in the evening a banquet was held in the Sons of Italy lodge rooms with Judge W. Walter Brannan and Judge Thomas W. Dickey as special guests. Judge Alessandrini spoke and presented a beautiful trophy to the Italo Balbo mushball team which won the Beaver Valley championship during the summer. Music was contributed by local entertainers.

Representatives from the New Castle lodge were: John DeLorenzo, Jerry Frasso, Louis Bosco, Mrs. Clotilde Ross, Mrs. Teresa Bobbino, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Colella and Cosmo Galasso.

Hot Finish Tops

Balbo's In Extra

Period Saturday

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 12.—The Hot Finish and Cold Finish swept into the first place lead in the Shelby Basketball league when the contending champs beat the Italo Balbo 40 to 35 and the Cold Finish swamped the Cold Draw, 42 to 14.

The luckless Italo Balbos, having already lost two games by the margin of one point, were defeated by the Hot Finish in an overtime period. The game ended with the score 33 to 33, but the Hot Finish rallied in the extra period to win.

In the extra period Izzo, Ursu and Robuck scored field goals and Scopellite made a free shot, while Fusco scored the lone goal for the losers.

Flashing a fine passing attack and a strong defense, the Cold Finish had little trouble in running roughshod over the Cold Draw. Hughes and Robuck were the leading scorers of the evening, each with 13 points.

On Wednesday the Hot Finish will play the Inspection and the Cold Finish will be matched with the Office.

Reflections
By J. K.

Poet and sage have given a thousand definitions of love. They have described it as everything from a "beautiful dream" to a "red, red rose." But it is still the least understood word in the dictionary, and the most abused.

No better advice to the lover than to be given than this: find out what love is. That would seem to be simple advice to follow but it is not. It entails lifting love by the nape of the neck out of a great maze of emotions, and taking a cold, practical look at the fellow. He does not lift easily, because he has been allowed to get almost hopelessly entangled with jealousy, passion and hate; but get him out and place him all by himself where he belongs, and he is a fine broth of a boy.

No crimes could be committed in his name.

Let the poets prate on about the "wicked and unprincipled little god" with a way of leaving people and curing their eyes of the blindness with which he smote them when he first became their companion, then, when they can see so clearly that sight in itself is pain, abandoning them. He is not wicked. That is, he is not so wicked as that. If his flying wings were just clipped a bit, he would be pretty near perfect.

Perhaps the best definition of love ever written, is contained in these words by Elbert Hubbard.

..... Love to him was a very vivid and personal reality. He knew what it meant—infinite forgiveness, a life-long yearning, a something that suffereth long and is kind."

Expect Large Crowd At Milk Fund Show In Arena Tonight

New Castle, Butler, Ellwood, Beaver Falls, Boxers Meet Opponents

TWO REFEREES TO HANDLE BOUTS

Indications pointed to several thousand persons attending the Exchange club's milk fund benefit boxing show at 8:00 tonight, in The Arena, Grove street. There will be eight bouts between 16 boxers who range in weight from 112 to 175 pounds.

The feature or last bout will be staged by Mickey Rubin of this city and Dave Nemeth of Youngstown. They weigh 175 pounds. Despite many past battles neither is marred facially and because both are full of vim and vigor people should see a good battle.

Another popular lad who will return to the ring tonight is Frankie Moran of this city. He will box Leo Seaborn of McKeesport. It will be the first time that Seaborn has boxed here. His trainers believe him capable of holding even or beating Moran at 126 pounds.

Blackie Ferrar, who has a big following from the Fifth and Eighth wards, will step out again tonight with Billy Miller of Alliance as his opponent at 136 pounds. Miller is an exceptionally good amateur battler. Ferrar has shown good promise in the several bouts he has had.

Reggie Renault of Alliance will substitute for Nick Retardo tonight because Nick injured a hand while training yesterday. Jack Krapjack of Youngstown, will take the place of Sharkey Schreckengost of Beaver Falls, Matchmaker Leach stated.

Halbert Brooks, known as "Dancing Feet" the pride of Moravia street will exchange punches with Joe Devine of Alliance at 147 pounds. Brooks got the name "Dancing Feet" because he is a well known tap and buck and wing dancer.

Jack Virgelli of Butler and Jack Rainey, 160 pounds, should put on an exciting show. Rainey is a slugger. Virgelli has a left jab as quick as a scratching kitten's front paw.

The Two Retardos, Nick and Babe of Ellwood City, will appear. Nick will box Tony Roma of McKeesport.

Boosters Defeat Ellwood Passers

Local Cagers Cop Third Consecutive Triumph By 27-18 Margin

In a hotly contested battle played on The Arena court, Sunday afternoon, the New Castle Boosters ran their victory string to three straight, defeating a fast Ellwood City All-Star aggregation. The final score, 27-18.

The first period saw both teams play a close defensive game with the Boosters taking a 6-4 edge. "Chink" Dutkin entered the fray in the second chapter and hit the mesh for three lightning like field goals, followed by "Slim" Wainio, who contributed a pretty goal from near mid-court. The Frasersmen held a 15-8 count as they left the floor for the half.

Ellwood City's defense tightened up in the third, limiting the locals to but four markers, a field goal and foul by "Slim" Wainio and a charity heave by "Pop" Adams. The Boosters narrowed the margin to 19-14 as the third quarter ended. A barrage of markers in rapid order clinched matters for the Boosters. "Blackie" Nocera connected with a pair of "double-counts" and a foul. Carey sank two Annie Oakleys and Adams chalked up his fifth straight free toss.

Dutkin, F. Wainio, Nocera and Adams shared scoring honors for the Boosters. Tomei, with eight points, and Roebuck, with five markers, were Ellwood City's best.

Carnegie Tech Gridders Start Training Drills

After Two And Half Weeks Of Vacationing Tartans Start Conditioning

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12.—Swinging back into action after a two-and-a-half weeks of "vacationing" Carnegie Tech's gridiron warriors dug out their moosekins today and hit the practice field again in preparation for the post-season classic with Texas as Christian at New Orleans on January 2.

While their fellow students talked of the coming Christmas holidays, the football players inaugurated a three-week's training program determined to give a good accounting of themselves when they invade the Sugar Bowl and square off with the Texans.

Watch O'Brien They will drill here for the rest of the week, leaving Sunday for the South to conclude preparations.

Chief task facing head coach Bill Kern is the developing of a new defense that will halt Texas Christian's famed passing attack, and especially "Little Davey" O'Brien, spearhead of the aerial game.

Dr. Eddie Baker, Kern's first assistant, scouted the horned toads when they routed Southern Methodist. He reported:

"Texas Christian has that passing game down pat. Two receivers are liable to be anywhere on the field. They'll dash down field, out and feint and first thing you know they're in the clear. The Texans use every kind of a pass and toss them from any place and at any time."

During the regular season, the Tartans proved themselves equal to any aerial barrage. Their eight opponents attempted 62 passes and completed only 18. Defensively, the Tartans intercepted 14 tosses.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

New Castle sports loving fans should turn out 100% for the milk fund benefit boxing show, tonight. In the books, the event is one of the most worthwhile undertakings of the year and deserves the support of fandom. Every person's attendance means a few quarts of milk for dependent children of the city and county. An all-star amateur show, bringing together the cream of "Simon-pures", is the feature attraction. Aside from witnessing a topnotch sports event, local fans will be lending their support to a worthy cause. See you there.

Three New Castle and two Ellwood City high gridgers were selected on the all opponents team picked by Beaver Falls high, recently. The "Red Hurricane" placed Roussos, Adams and Lauro. Jones and Keller, of the Wolverines, grace the team. Coach "Smiley" Welner, of Geneva college, was our guest at the New Castle Booster-Westminster baffle. He tossed a few bouquets in the direction of the Boosters. So did Grover C. Washburn, pilot of Westminster.

Sports briefs... Zimbinnati fans believe in preparation. Although the opening of the major season is several months away, some 21,000 fans have applied for seats for the Reds' home opener. The club moguls countered back by increasing the seating capacity by 166 seats. Floyd Jones, of Southern Cal, says that Duke trims his Trojans, the Wademen ride the national championship title. Aside to Mr. Jones: Then, you mean that should Southern Cal win, your boys should rate the laurels. Bertie Heallon, British hammer champ, who has thrown the thing 183 feet, pitches with his left hand.

It is news that... Phog Allen, Kansas U basketball mentor for the past 29 years, has turned out 22 championship teams? The Duke-Southern Cal Rose Bowl affair has been a sell-out for nearly a week? Major league ump's, next season, will have the privilege of denying batters the right to ask for a new ball at the first indication of a scuff and bruise? The Boston Bees are the only team in the majors never to have had a player named as the most valuable performer in the circuit?

1938 gridiron oddities... Aside from providing breath taking thrills for thousands of fans, the gridiron campaign, annually produces its share of odd situations, good for a laugh, and if not that, at least a chuckle. I have picked my All-American oddities. The Michigan State-West Virginia fracas gets top billing. A Mountaineer gridder left the field of battle to square off with a rooster who made a derogatory remark. Reaching the stands, said pigskin lad took a cue at the fan and also lifted a poke at a policeman on his way out of the stands. Then, he rushed onto the field and continued play without even uttering a word!

The William and Mary-Richmond U baffle produced a funny one. During play, a pony, mascot for W. & M., trotted onto the cross-barred field. The "ref" dished out a 15 yard penalty against W. & M. Richmond's captain declined the penalty! Johnny Getchell, who found it quite hard to count up to four in the Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame game, is still a contributing factor to much

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

Tonight the Arena will be filled with boxing fans as the Milk Boxing show will be under way. We hope that you are planning on attending and in case you not why not take a chance and buy your ticket at the gate... really you won't be disappointed and you are really doing a growing child a great deal.

It might not be a bad idea for you folks who park your cars in the alleys to kind of watch how close you park to a building... remember some folks still walk... and then you might rate a traffic ticket and they are getting harder and harder to talk your way out of... so why not think of the thousands of other folks who live on this earth.

And then we might have the evolution of a rose; "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet." Shakespeare... and now "A rose is a rose is a rose." Gertrude Stein.

And again New Castle is foremost to the church going world... we will be host to a distinguished churchman on Wednesday, when Dr. Ralph Atkinson Moderator of General Assembly, United Presbyterian Church... he will speak in the Third Church, East Washington and Adams street. Welcome Dr. Atkinson to New Castle the Gateway to opportunities.

This weather has sort of played hob with the ice skaters... so far very little if any ice skating has been done... but then again it is giving those really interested in skating a chance to work on the different projects that have been started throughout the city. They will be ready when winter does come this year. So may it find a white Christmas for us and all our friends.

If you really want to amount to something... we all agree it takes time and study of the things we want most... but we need to make every minute count so we are suggesting that you use the classified ad page to save you time and money. Be sure you read it every time you are thinking of buying or selling. Ask the man who uses it.

Consent-Verdict Probe Continues

Only Two Indictments Are Returned By Grand Jury
In Report

COURT INDICATES
PROBE NOT ENDED

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12.—City hall circles buzzed today with speculation on the identity of the person whom Judge Frank P. Patterson said he would "like to have seen indicted" in Pittsburgh's $375,000 "consent-verdict" racket.

Racing against time, the November grand jury returned true bills Saturday against former City Solicitor Churchill B. Mehard and Stanley K. Bennett, dismissed chief clerk in the city law department. Judge Patterson praised the jurors for avoiding premature "sensational" indictments against "persons you would like to have indicted, and we would like to have seen indicted."

To Continue Probe

At the same time, he indicated the investigation of "consent verdicts"—cases involving damage suits against the city settled without the benefit of jury trials—would be continued and possibly presented to the December grand jury, which is now in session.

Mehard, indicted on 14 counts of misdemeanor and 15 of bribery, was scheduled to post $10,000 bond today. He resigned his position during the past summer when his department was severely criticized. Bennett, indicted on two counts of perjury and another alleging misdemeanor in office, is required to post $5,000 bond.

Mayor Cornelius D. Scully had "no comment" on the indictments nor on the grand jury's statement that his $750 personal loan from Attorney Morris G. Levy, one of the lawyers already under indictment, "hardly works to the best interests of the city of Pittsburgh." The jury reported similar loans had been made to other city officials.

A copy of the grand jury's presentment was scheduled to be presented to city council today. The jury recommended that city council should make a "thorough investigation and audit" of the law department.
